HUGH JACKMAN IS $100 MILLION MAN

HUGH JACKMAN has been offered an astronomical $100 million to sign on for four more Wolverine movies – but insiders say he may turn it down.

The 44-year-old Aussie hunk is said to be wary about inking a long-term deal – even though this one would double his net worth.

“HUGH HAS A BIG DECISION TO make,” a close pal told The ENQUIRER. “It’s not every day an actor gets offered this kind of paycheck, but Hugh vowed never to lock himself into any multipicture deals after ‘X-Men.’ He hasn’t given any kind of answer yet, so at least he’s considering it.”

Hugh’s latest release, “The Wolverine,” raked in about $55 million on its opening weekend to nab the No. 1 slot at the box office. Meanwhile, the star is already busy filming “X-Men: Days of Future Past.”

A movie company spokesman revealed: “The studio would love to have Hugh play Wolverine for the next two decades. The bosses want him, and money is obviously no object.”

Hugh, a classically trained actor, has hinted he’s open to the idea of playing an aging Wolverine, telling reporters: “I think that would be fascinating.”

But in a recent interview, the star disclosed that his actress-wife Deborra-Lee had been against him playing Wolverine from the very first “X-Men” movie and wants to see him concentrate on more serious roles.

“Hugh won’t make any decisions without her approval,” said his pal, “and their friends are betting she’ll have him stick to their ‘one movie at a time’ rule.”

ANGELINA JOLIE may be a natural beauty, but The ENQUIRER has learned she’s repeatedly had help from high-tech cosmetic procedures.

The 38-year-old mother of six has gone for special laser treatments to make her skin look like porcelain – and it’s worked wonders, say insiders.

“Angie’s face looks like part of a marble statue,” declared a source close to the star. “It’s that smooth and polished.”

“I WAS TOLD SHE HAD Fraxel laser treatments (nonabrasive skin rejuvenation) numerous times in the past three to four years.”

Angelina also reportedly underwent an ActiveFX procedure that uses high-energy beams of light to improve the appearance of wrinkles, pigmented lesions and other signs of sun damage.

After Angie’s recent double mastectomy, says the source: “I was told she even had DeepFX, a more intense laser treatment.”

“She wanted to look her best on the red carpet with Brad (Pitt) when they made appearances for his film ‘World War Z.’”

Celebrity plastic surgeon and author Dr. Anthony Youn, who has not treated Jolie, told The ENQUIRER: “Angelina’s skin is pristine and resembles a 20-year-old’s.”

Angie wanted to look her best on the red carpet when she was with Brad promoting “World War Z”

After studying her face, he concluded that she may have undergone Fraxel laser treatments, which remove old, and stimulate the formation of new ones.

“These lasers have minimal downtime – a few days to a week – can tighten and smooth the skin, and reduce solar damage as well,” said the expert.

“Angelina looks great!”

In January 2009, The ENQUIRER reported that the acclaimed actress had become the subject of whispers she had Botox injections before the Golden Globe Awards ceremony.

New Jersey-based plastic surgeon Dr. Steve Fallek, who also does not treat Jolie, said it appeared she had the filler injected between the eyebrows.

HOLLYWOOD glamour queens have spent their entire lives trying to find the secret of eternal youth – but one actress has discovered it!

Amazingly youthful Bianca Lawson, 34, has been playing teens for 20 years in all sorts of shows.

“Bianca is stunning and never seems to age,” said an insider.

“The secret, she says, is good genes and a virtually wrinkle-free complexion.

“Bianca insists she was ‘blessed.’”

After modeling as a youngster,

Bianca got her big break in 1993 when she was cast as Bayside High School student Megan Jones in “Saved by the Bell: The New Class.”

Four years later, the beauty landed the role of teen vampire slayer Kendra on “Buffy the Vampire Slayer.”

TWO YEARS AFTER THAT, SHE returned to high school again in WB’s “Dawson’s Creek,” portraying Nikki Green, a budding student filmmaker.

The list of youthful roles goes on and on – including portraying the Youthful good looks and a love of show business seem to be a family tradition.

Her mom is the niece of Motown Records founder Berry Gordy, and in an odd twist of fate, Bianca appeared in the TV movie "The Temptations," playing Berry's lover, Diana Ross.

Delighted by her good fortune, Bianca told a pal: "Both my mother and father always looked younger than their years. So I did too!"

The talented actress is finally starting to graduate from teen roles. She's currently playing Ms. Morell, a French teacher and guidance counselor, on MTV's "Teen Wolf."

MILEY RISKING LIFE FOR WEED

Wild child's pot use BAD
FOR HER HEART CONDITION

WILD child Miley Cyrus has admitted she smokes marijuana – even though her doctors have warned her to steer clear of it.

The 20-year-old former "Hannah Montana" star stated in her autobiography that she has been diagnosed with a potentially deadly heart condition, called tachycardia, or an elevated heart rate. But medical experts warn smoking dope can increase a person's heart rate, and a source said that's just what's happening to Miley!

"MILEY SUFFERS FROM episodes of rapid heartbeats that scare her and leave her breathless," said a pal.

"Her doctors have told her to stay away from stimulants like caffeine, alcohol and weed, but she still insists on smoking and drinking tons of coffee – even though it affects her heart rate."

Medical experts say THC, the mind-altering ingredient in marijuana, can speed up the heart rate, triggering bouts of tachycardia. The increase in heart rate is greatest in the first 10 to 20 minutes after smoking, but it can last for several hours.

Miley told talk-show host Jimmy Kimmel in January that she and pal Snoop Lion, formerly known as Snoop Dogg, have a lot in common because they both get high. The "We Can't Stop" singer also admitted in a recent interview: "When I smoke I don't get that sick feeling I get when I drink – or that anger rising up."

The source added: "Miley has been smoking dope for a couple of years, although she kept it hidden from her fans until recently. Miley knows she probably shouldn't be smoking, but she loves getting high. Besides that, most of her friends smoke too, and she's not prepared to give it up even if it sends her heart racing.

"As a Disney star, she had to maintain a 'good girl' image for years. Now she feels she's going to do what she wants...and that includes getting high."

Edward with Arnold Schwarzenegger in the 1991 film "Terminator 2"

DEELY troubled "Terminator 2" star Edward Furlong may be headed to the slammer after photographers snapped him committing a probation violation.

Blatantly disregarding a court order, the actor, who played John Connor in the 1991 megahit, was caught meeting with an ex-girlfriend he had assaulted.

Even more shocking, photographs obtained by The ENQUIRER show the once-promising actor – who's struggled with heroin and cocaine addiction – with what looks suspiciously like track marks on his arms from injecting drugs.

"EDWARD CAN'T SEEM TO GET HIS LIFE together," a friend told The ENQUIRER. "But violating probation may be the rock bottom he needs to hit to turn things around."

Back in May, the 35-year-old was busted for assaulting his ex-girlfriend, "Private Practice" actress Monica

The judge put him on probation for five years – and ordered him to stay away from Monica. But on July 28, photographers caught him red-handed having lunch with a tearful Monica at Los Angeles' El Torito Mexican restaurant.

CORY PLANNED TO PROPOSE TO LEA

AS "Glee" star Lea Michele emerged in public for the first time since the July 13 death of her boyfriend and co-star Cory Monteith, The ENQUIRER has discovered a stunning secret behind the tragedy – he'd bought her an engagement ring!

A source reveals that days before his fatal overdose, Cory purchased the diamond sparkler with a plan to give it to Lea on her birthday, Aug. 29.

BUT HIS HOPES WERE dashed by his untimely death. In addition, Lea had reportedly warned him that, despite her desire to marry him, he had to get a handle on his substance-abuse problems.

"Cory and Lea had been so much in love, and he was looking forward to her birthday because he'd bought her the best present ever," said an insider. "He told us he was going to propose, but he never got the chance."

Meanwhile, on July 29, Lea was finally spotted in public, shielded by dark sunglasses and wearing a rhinestone "Cory" necklace. An eyewitness says the 26-year-old actress seemed subdued as she rode in a friend's car to a house in Bel-Air.

"Lea sat in the passenger seat and looked somber, but she briefly smiled as they talked," the eyewitness told

The ENQUIRER. Other cars arrived at the house at about the same time, and Lea stayed there for about three hours before leaving, according to the source.

That same day, Lea broke her silence about 31-year-old Cory's shocking passing, posting online an intimate photo of the couple with the caption: "Thank you all for helping me through this time with your enormous love & support. Cory will forever be in my heart."

FURRY FIRE HERO

The inferno gutted the Mollands' Redwood City, Calif., home

Cat helps family ESCAPE FROM BLAZE

A FEISTY female cat named Sergeant Pepper earned the eternal gratitude of her owners – when she saved their lives!

Judy Molland, her husband Joe and their son were snoozing away on the last day of the long Thanksgiving weekend when the long-haired multicolored fur ball sprang into action.

As she did every morning, Sergeant Pepper started her usual routine of meowing and pawing Joe's face to make him wake up and feed her.

NORMALLY, JOE IGNORED THE CAT until he was ready to get up. But on Nov. 25, 2012, Sergeant Pepper just wouldn't take “no” for an answer.

Grumbling, Joe climbed out of bed – and instantly smelled smoke. The couple didn't realize it at the time, but the big black cat, home and smoke was wafting up through their bathroom.

“My husband yelled, ‘Call emergency! I'll get the hose,’” recalled Judy. “Then he thrust a cell phone in my hands.”

Wearing only her nightgown, Judy raced outside. She was dialing 911 when she heard a huge “whoosh” and explosion.

Suddenly, flames were roaring out of their basement, and there was no way Joe's garden hose could quench the blazing inferno.

After the 911 operator ordered: “Don't go back in there,” the family stood outside, shivering in their night clothes as they clutched each other and watched their home burn.

Fire trucks rushed to the scene, and neighbors clustered around the family, bringing tea, coffee, warm clothing and supportive hugs. Neighbors even formed a human chain with firefighters to remove what possessions they could.

BUT IT WAS TOO LATE FOR THE HOUSE.

“The firefighters had to chain saw half our roof off, punch huge holes in our ceilings and smash every window to let all that smoke out,” Judy said. “I stood in a daze, weeping and shivering uncontrollably.” The blazing inferno destroyed the home, and they hope to eventually replace the belongings destroyed in the blaze.

But Judy is most grateful to the family's beloved pet.

“Even though our house was destroyed, thanks to Sergeant Pepper, we all got out just in time,” she said.

“Losing my home to a fire has come to seem like a gift. It has allowed me to recognize the importance of the relationships I have with my family and friends.

“Most of all, I am grateful for my husband, my son and, of course, my cat. Without Sergeant Pepper, we would not have escaped safely. I love my cat!”

AFTER years of living high on the hog, “The Real Housewives of New Jersey” stars Teresa and Joe Giudice were finally exposed as phonies in a string of federal fraud indictments.

And now a team of ENQUIRER reporters has gone behind the scenes to uncover the inside story of how the free-spending couple could lose everything. Sources say the Giudices’ headline-making fall from grace has been coming for years, as they blew big bucks on a flashy lifestyle that was nothing but smoke and mirrors.

“Image is everything, especially where Teresa’s concerned,” said a former bit player on the drama-filled Bravo series. “For years, she and Joe lived well above their means to maintain an illusion of opulence. When they landed on ‘Housewives,’ they ramped up the glitz factor even more.

“But as their legal problems show, it’s been a total sham – a house of cards that’s come down in spectacular fashion.”

ON JULY 29, THE HIGH-FLYING REALITY TV stars found that reality bites big-time.

That’s when Teresa, 41, and Joe, 43, were slapped with a 39-count federal indictment charging them with conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, bank fraud, making false statements on loan applications and bankruptcy fraud. Joe also is accused of failing to file tax returns for 2004 through 2008.

If convicted on all charges, each could face a maximum sentence of 50 years in prison, along with more than $1.5 million in fines. What’s more, Joe – who was born in Italy and is not an American citizen – could be deported.

“The threat of deportation is what really has Joe scared and, knowing the kind of guy he is, I suspect he’ll turn on Teresa,” a source close to the couple told The ENQUIRER. “After all, she’s the bigger fish in the family, and prosecutors want to bring her down more than Joe to set an example.

“In the past, Joe has taken the rap for Teresa during their civil lawsuits, but this case is a whole other ball game and I think Joe will do whatever it takes, even if it means ratting out his wife to save his own hide. At the moment, they appear united and supportive of each other, but that could change in an instant.”

Joe supported the family for years by running everything from a pizza joint to a stucco company. But since landing her reality gig, Teresa has been the family breadwinner thanks to her TV salary, cookbooks and a specialty food line, Skinny Italian.

The couple’s legal problems date back to October 2009, when they filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy protection, listing liabilities of more than $8 million!

That staggering sum included $2.2 million in home mortgages on their main residence, a gaudy 12,000-square-foot “McMansion” in Towaco, N.J., and a small place on the Jersey shore.

They also stiffed a fertility clinic for nearly $12,000 and owed $104,000 on eight credit cards, including $19,700 at Bloomingdale’s, Neiman Marcus and Nordstrom.

But the couple’s dire cash flow issues had yet to be revealed when Teresa set the tone for her over-the-top spending in “RHONJ’s” premiere episode in May 2009, shelling out a staggering $120,000 at a furniture store and paying the tab with a wad of rolled-up $100 bills.

“I hear the economy’s crashing,” she said matter-of-factly. “That’s why I pay cash.”

Teresa also splashed $10,000 for breast implants, and court documents reveal that just days after the couple filed for bankruptcy, she dropped another $60,000 on even more home furnishings.

But insiders say Teresa could have used the money, which was an advance for her cookbook “Skinny Italian,” to pay off creditors.

“Teresa is totally out of control when it comes to money matters,” said a pal. “And Joe also spends with reckless abandon. They seem unable to control themselves!”

As part of the bankruptcy suit, the trustee responsible for distributing their assets to creditors scheduled a public auction at their Towaco mansion in October 2010. The auction was canceled so the couple’s possessions could be sold privately, but it revealed their home was stuffed with luxury goodies, including a suit of armor, a Schaefer & Sons Grand piano, a 48-inch Wolf stainless steel gas range and an antique-style pool table.

The couple also spent lavishly on birthday parties for their daughters – Gia, 12, Gabriella, 8, Milania, 7, and Audriana, 3. They booked entire clubs for the bashes, splurging on catered food, custom cakes and booze for adult revelers.

The Giudices also travel like royalty. On July 21, at their Jersey shore getaway, The ENQUIRER observed Teresa and Joe tooling around in a Mercedes SUV. And in 2010, Joe admitted to owing $60,000 on their leased $140,000 Maserati.

After their indictment, the Giudices were released on $500,000 bail each. Neither filed a plea, and a trial date is expected to be set at their Aug. 14 arraignment.

Meanwhile, sources say Teresa's fellow TV housewives – Jacqueline Laurita, Caroline Manzo, her sister-in-law Melissa Gorga, Kathy Wakile and former co-star Danielle Staub – could be called to testify at the Giudices' trial.

"The women may have first-hand knowledge of Teresa's financial dealings, before and after the show premiered," said an insider.

"Prosecutors could also subpoena 'RHONJ' footage, and producers who might have information." The pal added: "Until these legal problems get resolved, Teresa's goose is definitely cooked. It's doubtful that her cookbook publisher or any other company she's involved with would want to continue their relationship unless she's found not guilty."

A source close to the couple added: "It looks like Joe and Teresa could be wiped out financially – and land in the poor house after serving time in the big house."

Behati was on the phone with her model girlfriends getting lists of names of high-end wedding planners. Then she presented Adam with a list of more than 300 invitees – and that’s only her friends and family! When she told Adam she needed his list so she could start looking for the perfect venue, he stopped her in her tracks and told her, “I don’t want this to turn into a Hollywood circus!” Lotsa luck, pal! While “The Voice” coach wants nothing more than to say his “I do’s” among family and close friends, he now knows Behati’s fixated on a hooray-for-Gollywood wingding with all the trimmings. “Adam’s idea of the perfect wedding is holding it in his house in early 2014, when renovations are completed,” said the source. “But here’s another BIG hitch – Behati’s to agree to marry by the end of the year!” So, who will have the final VOICE? Stay tuned.

SIMON COWELL's shocking affair with a married New York socialite could send him to prison – and put his $380 million fortune at risk!

A source tells The ENQUIRER that the estranged husband of Cowell's pregnant lover, Lauren Silverman, wants the former "American Idol" judge to be prosecuted for adultery – a crime that could put him behind bars. What's more, if the Silvermans' divorce suit goes to trial, insiders say it could trigger even more legal problems for Cowell, with tax auditors in both England and America combing through his financial empire.

THE ENQUIRER HAS ALSO LEARNED THAT Lauren's husband Andrew discovered the affair when he caught Cowell in the couple's bedroom – and that's when Lauren dropped the bombshell on both men that she's expecting Cowell's child!

"If Andrew Silverman has his way, Simon Cowell could end up broke, behind bars and even thrown out of the U.S.," a source told The ENQUIRER.

"Andrew has told friends, 'I want Simon crushed! I want him destroyed!'"

Silverman, a wealthy property developer, and his wife have been friends with Cowell since meeting him seven years ago while vacationing in Barbados, sources say.

The couple spent many summers partying on Cowell's luxury yacht, Slipstream, off the French Riviera, and also socialized with him in England and Los Angeles.

"Andrew knew Lauren and Simon were close, but he thought Simon was simply part of their social circle," a source told The ENQUIRER.

"During their vacations, Andrew sometimes returned to New York while Lauren remained on the yacht with Simon. That's how much he trusted them."

But according to published reports, 36-year-old Lauren has told pals that she became intimately involved with Cowell, 53, in late 2011 or early 2012.

And insiders say her husband was completely unaware of the illicit affair until June when he discovered the "X Factor" judge in the Silvermans' bedroom at their $4 million mansion in Bridgehampton, N.Y.

"ANDREW OFTEN SPENT THE WEEK in New York City working and joined Lauren in the Hamptons on the weekends," said the source.

"But he decided to pop in a day early. Right away, he spotted their bed was messed up and saw a half-naked Simon lounging in just a robe with his clothes scattered around the bedroom.

"Andrew realized Simon, caught with his pants down, was making himself at home with his mansion AND his wife – and he went berserk!"

Enraged, Silverman exploded, said the source.

"Lauren admitted everything and announced that she was pregnant by Simon," said the source.

"Andrew went crazy. He called Lauren a whore, a slut and a tramp. Simon tried to calm him down, apologizing and begging for Andrew's understanding.

"But Andrew blew up again, and yelled, 'I'll finish you, you cheating bastard!' Then he stormed out of the house."

On July 15, Silverman made good on his threats – filing for divorce on the grounds of adultery, demanding full custody of their 7-year-old son and naming Cowell as co-respondent.

Even worse, Silverman instructed his attorneys to hit Cowell with a $100 million lawsuit for alienation of affections and to seek legal prosecution against the star for adultery.

New York state law has officially outlawed adultery since 1907. The Class B misdemeanor encompasses married people cheating or an unwed person sleeping with a married one. The crime, punishable by up to a $500 fine and 90 days in jail, was last prosecuted in 2010, but there were a dozen cases before that.

While such cases rarely go to court,

Andrew could use his wealth and power to have Cowell prosecuted, New York divorce attorney Scott I. Orgel of the firm Eiges & Eiges told The ENQUIRER.

"Andrew also wants his lawyers to investigate whether an adultery conviction could lead to Simon's visa being revoked and him being deported to England," said the source.

As if that's not bad enough, if the Silvermans' divorce suit goes to trial, sources say it could open Cowell's business records to government tax snoops.

"Simon is afraid that exposing his finances will give British tax collectors an open door into his financial empire," a source told The ENQUIRER.

"Andrew is betting Simon will cough up a large settlement to avoid that. But for Simon, Lauren Silverman could be the most expensive sex toy in history."

Meanwhile, The ENQUIRER has discovered that Lauren's sleazy affair with Cowell was not her first scandal.

WHEN SHE WAS 16, LAUREN reportedly had an affair with a 26-year-old teacher at her posh $30,000-a-year high school in Miami, Fla. The teacher, Steven Lewis, was forced to resign after Lauren's mother overheard a steamy phone conversation between the two.

"The affair lasted a couple of months. Everyone at the school knew about it," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

"The general opinion was that Lauren seduced the teacher. She

ENQUIRER EDITOR SAW START OF AFFAIR

I WITNESSED firsthand Simon putting the moves on shapely socialite Lauren Silverman – right in front of her unsuspecting husband.

Back in October 2011, Simon and I were relaxing on the patio of a magnificent waterside mansion he was renting in Miami when a pretty, slender brunette arrived. Simon introduced her as “the beautiful Lauren” and the man accompanying her as “her husband, my good friend Andrew.”

IT WAS OBVIOUS THAT SIMON was attracted to Lauren. He gazed at her the way a starving man eyes a juicy steak, and lavished her with compliments. While discussing his show, “The X Factor,” he gushed to her: “You have a brilliant eye for talent and a good ear, too!” He called her “hugely talented” and noted that he wouldn’t be surprised if she landed her own reality show because she’s “much more interesting than any of those tacky housewives.”

The whole time, Simon virtually ignored her husband, Andrew, who mostly talked about real estate and checked his phone for messages. Meanwhile, Andrew didn’t seem to notice, or care, that Simon was so ob-

Eventually, Lauren and Andrew left for a dinner date, at which point Simon proclaimed: “That girl’s got a terrific future – it’s just finding the right niche for her.”

I now realize that Simon apparently found the “right niche” for Lauren, though I seriously doubt that being her baby daddy was part of his plan!

The huge Hamptons home of the Silvermans, where Andrew discovered Simon with Lauren dropped out of school, and the teacher had to disappear.

“The school just wanted the whole scandal to go away.”

Lauren also steamed up the sheets with high school boyfriend Charles Ans when they were both 17. He recalled the time she bolted when his aunt nearly caught them having sex in the shower.

“Lauren was very slim, so she managed to squeeze through my bathroom window,” recalled Ans.

“But she was totally naked, and she had to hide outside until I could get her a towel. Then, I slipped out with her clothes and she managed to sneak away.”

He says another time his mother caught them having sex.

A source close to the situation wondered how Simon could get himself involved with a woman like Lauren.

“Simon Cowell needs to have his head examined,” blasted the source.

“If he would have just run a simple background check into Lauren’s past before jumping into the sack with her, he would have realized that he shouldn’t get anywhere near her.

“Now, he’s paying a heavy price for his carelessness.”

EDWARDS & THE CONVICTED FELON

Shameful

OF DISGRACED
POLITICIAN'S

John Edwards' dinner date on July 24 with Benjamin Sheftall Eichholz (circled) is only going to add to his PR nightmare

BIRDS of a feather flock together – especially in the case of admitted cheater and former presidential hopeful John Edwards.

As our exclusive photo shows, Edwards met with Benjamin Sheftall Eichholz, a convicted felon and disbarred attorney, at Local 11 Ten restaurant in Savannah, Ga., on July 24.

Local 11 Ten restaurant in Savannah, Ga.

ON AUG. 6, 2009, A FEDERAL GRAND jury slammed Eichholz with a 77-count indictment, charging that he schemed to embezzle more than $950,000 from employee pension benefit plans. He pleaded guilty to one count and was sentenced to 21 months in federal prison and fined $25,000. For Edwards, it's the worst possible time to be caught meeting with a convicted felon.

The former senator – who once raked in millions as a personal injury attorney – is desperately trying to rehabilitate his reputation as he reportedly gets set to open a new North Carolina law firm.

“Ben is a real shady character,” said a source. “If John wants to repair his image, he needs to steer clear of people like him.”

EICHHOLZ TOLD THE ENQUIRER that he knows Edwards through his attorney son, David, and “discussed some high-profile cases” with him in Savannah.

Edwards is trying to get back on his feet after a bombshell series of ENQUIRER exposes revealed that the married dad was not only cheating on his cancer-stricken wife Elizabeth with videographer Rielle Hunter but also that he was the father of her love child.

And on June 3, 2011, Edwards was indicted by a North Carolina grand jury on six felony charges of illegally using nearly $1 million in campaign contributions to cover up his affair with Rielle. But a jury failed to convict him, and the Justice Department dropped the case.

“John’s meeting with Ben is only going to add to his PR nightmare,” said the source. “First he cheats on his sick wife and now he’s hanging around with a convicted felon.”

JOHN GETS TOUGH WITH REBEL DAUGHTER, 15

JOHN EDWARDS is so concerned about his 15-year-old wild child Emma Claire that he’s planning to ship her off to boarding school, says an insider.

THE TEEN HAS BEEN HIT WITH A DOUBLE WHAMMY – her dad’s embarrassing affair and her beloved mom Elizabeth’s death from cancer at age 61 in 2010.

“Emma Claire hasn’t been the same since her mom died,” a family source told The ENQUIRER. “John’s hoping a new school will curb her unruly conduct.”

As The ENQUIRER exclusively reported early this year, Emma Claire raised eyebrows when she posted images of herself flashing her middle finger on her Twitter page and in her comments sounded like she was a boy-crazy party girl. Her most alarming post was a picture that appeared to be her with a caption that read:

“Oh yeah, I F love cocaine.”

“She’s out of control,” declared the source. “She’s been hanging out with kids who drink and smoke pot, and she’s become more and more belligerent with her father. The family fears she’s getting back at John for all the heartache he’s caused. John’s got no one to blame but himself. Emma Claire may have a chip on her shoulder, but he’s the one who helped put it there.”

JEN LASHES OUT AT COUGAR KATIE

2 UGLY CATFIGHTS

JENNIFER ANISTON lashed out at Katie Couric after becoming convinced that the 56-year-old cougar was trying to get close to her fiancé, Justin Theroux.

"Stay away from my man!" she warned the veteran newswoman, according to a source.

The cat-fight burst spectacularly into the open on July 31, when Jennifer, 44, was a guest on E! channel's "Chelsea Lately" show.

Host Chelsea Handler, a close friend of Jennifer's, told her pal that during a recent appearance on her show, perky Katie – now hosting a syndicated talk show – tried to squeeze secret information from her about Jen's upcoming nuptials.

"KATIE WAS ASKING ME ABOUT your wedding, and I had to act like I didn't even know you were engaged," Chelsea told Jen.

Jennifer responded by saying: "What's Katie Couric? Is she a legitimate journalist?...Wasn't she on the 'Today' show?"

Handler acidly replied: "She was on the 'Today' show. She got a demotion to her own show."

Chelsea's tip-off has apparently put Jennifer on high alert.

"Jennifer is convinced that Katie will stop at nothing to get details about her wedding, which she's kept under lock and key," said the source.

What's more, insiders say that Jennifer fears Katie may be interested in more than wedding

She warns Couric, 56, to stay away from her man

WATCH OUT, JENNIFER! Katie likes her men dark, handsome and young, and Justin fits that bill, says a source

Chelsea told BFF Jen that Katie had been asking for details about her wedding plans when it comes to Justin.

"Katie clearly likes her men dark, handsome and young, and Justin fits that bill," said the source. At 42, he's 14 years younger than Katie, which the source says is "perfect for her."

Katie dated Brooks Perlin, a 17-years-younger toy boy, for five years before hooking up with her six-years-younger banker beau John Molner, 50. She also dated trumpeter Chris Botti, who's five years her junior.

Incredibly, Katie's now telling pals she has a crush on Baltimore Ravens quarterback Joe Flacco – who's only 28.

Revealed an insider: "Katie is just like Demi Moore – a cougar who has a thing for young studs."

Couric previously characterized the "cougar" label as "silly and sexist."

Jennifer's feud with Katie comes at the happiest time in her life. Her romance with Justin is going so well she recently said that she already feels married to him. And Hollywood was abuzz about a possible pregnancy when she was spotted out and about with what looked like a baby bump.

Jennifer's reps have denied she's pregnant, but the source says: "Jennifer has a lot to protect right now, and the last thing she wants is for Katie to ruin her happiness."

"YOU'RE a back-stabber. That's what sources say Hillary Clinton accused her old love rival Barbra Streisand of being while in a fury over a salacious TV miniseries that threatens to blow the lid off her embarrassing marriage secrets.

The former secretary of state fears the miniseries could destroy her run for the White House in 2016. Now she's blaming the legendary singer for not stepping in after learning that former daughter-in-law Diane Lane would play Hillary in the multimillion-dollar production.

"Hillary was in a rage with Barbra," said a source. "Her attitude was, 'How could you do this to me?'"

Tentatively titled "Hillary," the project is expected to detail her philandering hubby Bill's sex-capades – including the Monica Lewinsky scandal – as well as Hillary's own shocking love life.

SOURCES SAY HILLARY WILL do whatever it takes to make sure the miniseries never airs – and has even met privately with President Barack Obama about using his clout to stop NBC. They also say she's taking aim at anyone who's had a hand in getting the series produced.

"Hillary is certain that Streisand knew all along that Diane was going to portray her," the source continued. "She even believes that Barbra encouraged Diane to take the part – and that really stings.”

Hillary, 65, has had it in for Barbra, 71, since rumors first surfaced in the early '90s that President Clinton was carrying on a secret affair with the diva. Barbra had been a huge supporter, giving a concert to raise money for Bill's White House campaign. She also sang at his inaugural gala.

But the bad blood between the women exploded when Babs spent the night as a guest in the Lincoln Bedroom in 1993 while Hillary was in Little Rock tending to her dying father. On the day Hillary returned to the White House, there was talk of a major fight, and the next morning, the president had an unexplained scratch on his face.

AS THE ENQUIRER REPORTED THE following year, a jealous Hillary banned Barbra from the White House over fears that the singer was trying to make a play for her husband.

While Barbra told pals at the time that Hillary's fears were “silly,” a Beltway insider says the former first lady “has never forgiven...or forgotten.”

According to sources, Bill had to beg Hillary to accompany him to the 40th anniversary Chaplin Award Gala on April 22 in New York, where Barbra was honored for her film career.

“She plastered on a big, fake smile for the cameras, but she couldn't wait to get out of there,” said the source. “Hillary still hates Barbra.”

“She thinks that Barbra should have stopped Diane from doing the miniseries.”

Although Diane, 48, is no longer married to Barbra's stepson Josh Brolin, the two women remain close, say insiders.

“The fact that Barbra didn't step in has convinced Hillary that Barbra's doing this out of spite AND because she still has a thing for Bill,” added the source.

“For Hillary, Barbra's former daughter-in-law playing her is the last straw.”

CHRIS HANSEN DUMPED BY NBC

'To Catch a Predator' host AXED AFTER CHEATING SCANDAL

The ENQUIRER blew the lid off the secret relationship between Hansen and Caddell in a blockbuster expose in July 2011

JUST weeks after the ex-mistress of "Dateline NBC" star Chris Hansen confessed their scandalous relationship to The ENQUIRER, the network has dumped him.

Last month, sexy TV reporter Kristyn Caddell, 32, blasted Hansen, 53, in a bombshell open letter she penned exclusively for The ENQUIRER - accusing the former "To Catch a Predator" star of tricking her into believing his marriage was in shambles and of lying to his wife.

And when Hansen was axed by NBC, an angry Kristyn - who says her own career was wrecked by the affair - told The ENQUIRER that the two-timer got exactly what he deserved.

"He tried to discredit The ENQUIRER by lying to the world about our affair, and he also tried to discredit me as a person and as a journalist," said the blonde TV news reporter.

"I don't have any sympathy for him over being dumped by the network because it was essentially the same thing our affair was exposed.

"Chris has ruined a lot of lives and hurt a lot of innocent people."

Kristyn says she met Hansen in a Palm Beach, Fla., bar in March 2011, and in July 2011, The ENQUIRER blew the lid off their secret relationship in a blockbuster expose.

RANDY TRAVIS ON ROAD TO FULL RECOVERY

COUNTRY music superstar Randy Travis is out of the hospital and on his way to a full recovery!

"It's a miracle," a source close to the "Three Wooden Crosses" singer told The ENQUIRER. "No one expected him to survive a month ago, but God heard his fans' prayers and stepped in to save Randy's life."

"Now, we're starting to believe that someday Randy will sing again."

THE 54-YEAR-OLD GRAMMY WINNER WAS admitted to the Baylor Medical Center at McKinney in McKinney, Texas, on July 7 with cardiomyopathy - a condition caused by a virus that attacks the heart muscles and can sometimes lead to cardiac arrest.

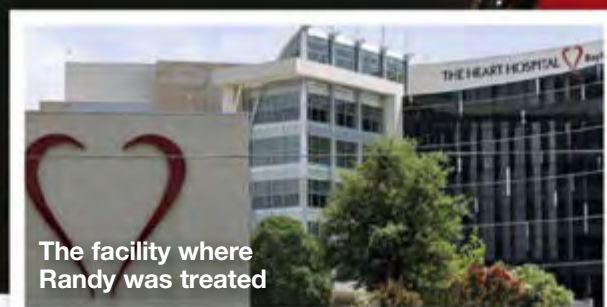

ENQUIRER readers learned that Randy's heart failure could have been exacerbated by his return to drinking after 19 years of sobriety as well as a new addiction to deadly speed. And things got worse when he suffered a stroke on July 10 and underwent surgery to relieve pressure in his brain - the prognosis was grim. But despite the improved outlook, Randy may be months from returning home. He's now at a physical therapy facility battling to overcome the partial paralysis he suffered as a result of the stroke.

Said the singer's fiancée, Mary Davis: "Thanks to all the fans and friends for your continued prayers and support as Randy continues on the road to recovery."

It's a miracle!

Channing and Mila on the set of their upcoming film, "Jupiter Ascending"

Look out, Ashton!

MILA GETS COZY WITH FLIRTY CHANNING

Ashton is acting jealous, say insiders

ASHTON KUTCHER now knows how every other man in America feels – he's jealous of Channing Tatum!

That's because Ashton's red-hot girlfriend Mila Kunis is cozing up to Channing on the set of their new movie.

Mila and Channing have hit it off big-time while filming the sci-fi thriller "Jupiter Ascending" in Chicago – and 35-year-old Ashton is acting jealous, say insiders.

IN TRUTH, ASHTON HAS NOTHING to worry about, according to a pal who said: "Channing is one of the best flirts in Hollywood, but he's completely in love with his wife and new baby. So Ashton's feelings are ridiculous.

"Ashton knows they're just working together and that his jealousy is irrational, but what gets to him is how Mila raves and raves about how nice and charming Channing is."

The notion of Channing working with Mila "is burning him up," the pal added.

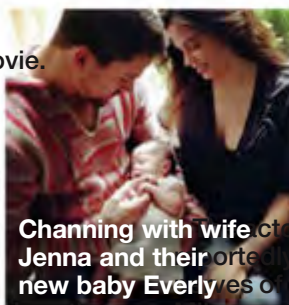

"He's even been keeping tabs on her through mutual pals on the movie."

The "Two and a Half Men" star went so far as to fly to Chicago to check up on Mila, 29, and her 33-year-old co-star.

Channing with wife actor's concerns are Jenna and their orted getting on the new baby Every res of fiercely independent Mila.

"It's not hard to imagine why Mila getting so close to Channing would make Ashton worry," the pal said.

"Who wouldn't be concerned if their girlfriend was working with the 'Sexiest Man Alive,' even if he's a happily married new father?"

WHAT SHOULD WE EXPECT WHEN WE PUT OUR DOG TO SLEEP?

Q. Jessie is our first dog. She has been with us for 15 years, but we can tell that it's getting close to time to put her to sleep. We think it's only right that we be with her during the procedure, but we'd like advice about what to expect.

A. Sorry to hear that the time to part with your beloved dog is drawing near. Choosing whether or not to be there when she is euthanized is a personal one, but I can tell you that I have never had a client regret being present. Essentially, the pet is given an intentional anesthetic overdose. The vital centers – heart and respiration – stop working after a state of unconsciousness is reached. The actual injection process will vary slightly depending on the preference of the veterinarian, but the drugs take effect quickly and death typically occurs within one to two minutes of the injection. Although it is a very peaceful process for the pet, it is heartbreaking for the owners to say their final goodbyes. Bring plenty of tissues.

IS IT POSSIBLE FOR A CAT TO BE CURED OF DIABETES?

she is no longer diabetic. Is that possible?

A. Surprisingly, the answer is yes. But this phenomenon is unique to cats. Unlike in both dogs and humans, diabetes can be a temporary disease in cats. This may occur in 10 to 20 percent of cats diagnosed with Type 1 (insulin dependent) diabetes. Apparently, cells in the pancreas not producing insulin are somehow able to regain this function. No one knows why this is not the case in dogs and humans.

MEL GIBSON

In 2005, Mel Gibson reportedly plopped down $15 million to purchase 5,400-acre Mago Island in Fiji. But the natives are restless about it! Indigenous people – the Yavusa Vuaniivi tribe – living on a neighboring island claim that Mad Mel, 57, had no right to buy Mago because their ancestors were violently evicted from the island in the 1800s. They hope to hire a lawyer to fight Mel for ownership and have appealed to the Fijian government, but so far authorities have refused to get involved.

RICHARD BRANSON

In 1978, British business tycoon Sir Richard Branson, 63, paid just $320,000 for the 74-acre Necker Island in the British Virgin Islands and turned it into an exclusive resort that rents out for $50,000 a night. In 2011, the main house caught fire after being struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

“PIRATES of the Caribbean” star Johnny Depp has a secret plan to trade showbiz and the limelight for an obscure life on his own tropical island, a source says. On the heels of his huge box-office flop “The Lone Ranger,” a disappointed Depp told an interviewer: “I wouldn’t say that I’m dropping out any second, but I would say that it’s probably not too far away.”

Hollywood is abuzz about his possible retirement, “but the truth is that’s something he’s been secretly planning for a long time,” a close source told The ENQUIRER.

“He’s set on escaping to his private island in the Bahamas, where he’ll build a compound that will allow him to sever ties with the outside world.”

For years, the swashbuckling star made France his home with his former girlfriend, French actress/singer Vanessa Paradis, and their two children because it allowed him to dodge the public eye. But now he apparently envisions a life with even less scrutiny. Johnny’s Caribbean refuge is Little Hill’s Pond Cay, a pristine, 45-acre isle that he reportedly purchased for $3.6 million.

Driven by the need for independence and solitude, the insider says the eccentric actor, 50, has been studying alternative energy sources, hydroponic gardening, natural medicines and survival techniques.

“That would allow him to become, in essence, a hermit,” continued the insider.

Before sailing off into the sunset, the actor has several film projects in the works. But just recently he confided to an interviewer: “I almost feel guilty about being so happy in the Caribbean. Living in the islands is the closest place to heaven.”

EDDIE MURPHY

When it comes to real estate conquests, comedian Eddie Murphy's island purchases are no laughing matter! In 2007, the "Nutty Professor" star reportedly paid $15 million for 15.4-acre Rooster Cay in the Bahamas. But that wasn't 52-year-old Eddie's first stab at paradise. He previously owned another Bahamian isle called Pearl, which is a tiny speck of real estate that features a lighthouse and is located near Paradise Island.

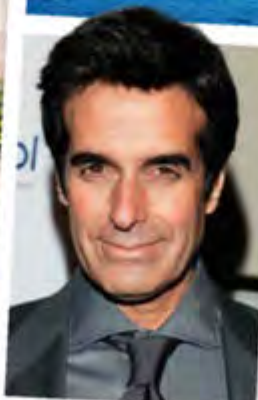

CELINE DION

"River Deep, Mountain High" singer Celine Dion, 45, has her own isle on a river! This Canadian native's private getaway, Ile Gagnon, is located in her home province of Quebec on the sleepy Mille Iles River. It features a French-style chateau that stands out as a landmark to locals and tourists. But they have to admire it from a distance because it's protected by a fence to assure utmost privacy for Celine's growing family.

Island life is simply magical for David Copperfield. In 2006, the 56-year-old illusionist transformed a string of 11 small Bahamian islands into a breathtaking 700-acre resort called Musha Cay. The private vacation spot – which has hosted the likes of John Travolta and costs a whopping $325,000 a week per person – boasts hidden drive-in movie theaters, nature trails through the jungle, private thatched guest huts and even a monkey village.

A romantic getaway is always within reach for country music superstars Tim McGraw, 46, and Faith Hill, 45, because they have a massive estate on Goat Cay – one of the Exuma Islands in the Bahamas. MONICA WANTED TO BED JFK JR.

NOTORIOUS White House intern Monica Lewinsky bounced back from her fizzled affair with then-President Bill Clinton by targeting another high-profile married man — John F. Kennedy Jr.!

The ENQUIRER has learned that as Monica's scandalous romance with Clinton waned, she begged in a letter to a top presidential adviser for a job at Kennedy's political magazine "George" in hopes of bedding America's favorite son.

"Monica was convinced that if she could seduce the president of the United States — the most powerful man in the world — then she'd easily be able to sleep with JFK Jr.," revealed a Washington, D.C., insider.

THE BOMBSHELL LETTER WAS buried in a collection of long-hidden material, including a tantalizing sex tape obtained by The ENQUIRER from a confidential source who claimed to be a "cleaner" hired by individuals close to Monica. The explosive material was meant to be destroyed, but as we have reported, the source has kept the sensational information under lock and key for 15 years.

Now, the secret collection has yielded yet another blockbuster — then-24-year-old Monica was determined to wheedle her way into the life of the dashing young Kennedy scion.

"Once Monica realized that Bill was never going to leave Hillary, was never coming to her defense and would never speak with her again, she desperately tried to use her White House connection to go after John," said the insider.

Chasing married men in positions of power was a pattern for Monica — who carried on a five-year affair with the man who had been her married drama teacher at Beverly Hills High School, Andy Bleiler.

With one adulterous affair already under her belt, Monica arrived at the White House in July 1995 as an unpaid intern. She's claimed her sexual relationship with Clinton began in November 1995 and continued into 1997.

After her interactions with Clinton raised eyebrows, Monica was transferred to a Pentagon position. Unhappy with her job, she met with Clinton's personal friend and adviser Vernon E. Jordan Jr. in the fall of 1997 about finding a high-powered post in New York City.

In a letter to Jordan dated Nov. 5, 1997, and obtained by The ENQUIRER, Monica listed several potential dream jobs, including assistant producer at TV networks and account executive at top public relations firms. Then she added in larger type "anything at George magazine."

At the time, Monica knew that Kennedy — who was destined to perish along with his wife Carolyn in a plane crash in July 1999 — reportedly planned to write a "George" editorial supporting Clinton, although he later abandoned the idea, said the insider.

"Monica really believed that if she got a job working for John, they'd become friends and eventually lovers," revealed the insider. "She was clearly delusional, but at the time she truly thought that John was going to be her next love."

Michelle became Castro's first victim in August 2002, when he lured the then-21-year-old into his blue Miata near his home at 2207 Seymour Ave., in Cleveland.

"I remember all of the times you came home talking about what everyone else did wrong," Michelle added, reflecting on how she was brutally raped and beaten by Castro. "You acted like you weren't doing anything wrong. You said, 'at least I didn't kill you.' You took 11 years of my life away, and I have got it back!"

"My friendship with her was the only thing that was good out of this situation. We said we would someday make it out alive, and we did."

REAL
BRITNEY

If you think one Britney Spears is a lot to deal with, get ready for some double-trouble.

The hard-partying pop star has an amazing look-alike who could pass for her identical twin.

She's a British woman named Michaela Weeks, who first realized her astonishing resemblance to Britney when the pop sensation rocketed up the charts with "...Baby One More Time" in 1998. Eight years ago, Michaela quit her waitressing job to work as a Britney double and started appearing at parties and clubs and even singing Britney's songs.

"I'M A HUGE BRITNEY FAN," she says.

Nowadays, heads turn and passers-by grab for their cameras when the sexy blonde saunters down the street in her small town of Ilkeston in central England. Even more impressive, Michaela has raked in nearly half a million bucks impersonating the Louisiana belle.

"I feel very blessed to look like Britney and to be living the life I am now," notes the 25-year-old bombshell.

She was able to buy her first house when she was only 19 and admits spending a small fortune on sports cars, two houses, clothes and shoes.

"If I ever get to meet Britney, I want to thank her for giving me this life," says the beauty.

But being the spitting image of a world-famous celebrity has also presented problems.

Michaela was plunged into a financial nightmare and nearly lost her home after Britney suffered a headline-making breakdown in 2007. The pop tart shaved her head, charged at a photographer, landed in rehab and eventually endured the indignity of having her father appointed as her conservator.

As Britney fell out of the limelight so did her double. "I thought my career was over," recalls Michaela. "I took up work as a beautician to try to keep up with the bills."

But when Britney released her "Circus" album in 2008, Michaela staged her own comeback.

She refocused on becoming the perfect Britney clone—immersing herself in research on the idol and choosing the proper hairstyles and costumes.

"Every day I check what Britney is wearing and what she's doing," Michaela reveals.

"When she releases new singles, I have to learn the songs, get an outfit to match and teach myself the dancing routine as soon as possible.

"I do a lot of charity events, birthday parties, weddings, nightclub appearances and promotional events."

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

BROOKS' DOUBTS about Desiree

Erin Reese (far right) broke Brooks' heart and he was afraid Desiree would do the same to him

Ex reveals truth about 'BACHELORETTE' HUNK'S DRAMATIC WALKOUT

HUNKY Brooks Forester is nursing a secret heartbreak – and that's the real reason he had second thoughts about "The Bachelorette" Desiree Hartsock!

A source tells The ENQUIRER that Forester was left devastated when the love of his life cheated on him, and he grew terrified that Desiree would do the same thing.

Viewers were shocked by his dramatic decision to walk out before the show's finale.

"I broke Brooks' heart and he's never forgiven me," his former sweetheart, 28-year-old model Erin Reese, told The ENQUIRER. "I dated him for nearly two years, and about 18 months ago we called it quits."

But an insider close to Forester claims there's more to the story.

"Brooks loved Erin very much," said a family insider. "They were talking seriously about getting married, but then he found out that Erin was cheating on him. Brooks broke up with her and never looked back."

And when Forester, a 28-year-old sales and marketing rep, saw

Brooks had been tabbed as "the one" for Desiree, but he couldn't handle watching her interact with the other guys on the show

Desiree canoodling with his rivals on "The Bachelorette," he couldn't take it, said the source.

"When Brooks watched all the other guys falling over Desiree, and saw her kissing two or three of them a day, it tore open the wound in his heart from Erin," said the insider.

"The memories of Erin cheating came flooding back, and he couldn't handle any more betrayal."

Looking back, Erin says losing Forester broke her heart too.

"I LOVED BROOKS, AND EVEN THOUGH I tried to make up with him, he refused to take me back," she told The ENQUIRER. "When I realized that he would never forgive me, I moved out of the state to get over him."

Forester had been tabbed as "the one" for Desiree, 27, for several weeks.

But a source says he flipped out after seeing her interact with Chris Siegfried, a 27-year-old Oregon mortgage broker, and Drew Kenney, 27, a digital marketing analyst from Arizona, while "The Bachelorette" filmed in Antigua.

"From his hotel balcony, Brooks could see Desiree in a hot tub, kissing a guy and drinking champagne," said the family insider. "Then the next morning, she was rolling around on the beach in a tiny bikini, and ended up sitting on top of another guy!"

"Brooks knew what he was signing up for with 'The Bachelorette.' But at the same time, when he saw Desiree kissing other guys week after week, it was disgusting to him.

"Even if he gets sucked back into being with Desiree, I don't see their relationship going the distance."

Forester's former flame agrees.

"Brooks is very serious about his relationships," Erin told The ENQUIRER. "I was surprised to hear he was going on 'The Bachelorette,' because a person can't fall in love in a matter of weeks, especially not Brooks.

"I'm sure Desiree is a nice girl, but knowing Brooks, I'm not surprised he walked away."

Our Top 3 Guaranteed Fat Burners!

There are thousands of diet products out there, but which one is right for you? We've looked at them all. Here are our 3 favorites. Remember to visit the individual websites for the full skinny on each product.

1 “Combo-Pilling”... America's NEW Weight-Loss Craze!

Ever wonder how some people manage to get so thin... so fast? It could be “Combo Pilling”... the über-trendy, “underground” practice of combining two or more diet pills to create “supercharged” weight loss. Our favorite diet pill combination is Zantrex®-3 (the high energy fat burner) and Relacore® Extra (the calming, feel good, “belly fat” pill). One pill picks you up, the other pill calms you down... both of them help you lose weight... but together, oh my goodness! Available at WalMart, CVS, Walgreens, RiteAid and smarter retailers nationwide, or you can order both at TryComboPilling.com (use promo code COMBOPILL30 and get free shipping!).

Q: What Is Combo-Pilling?

A: The highly controversial practice of Combo-Pilling is truly an underground phenomenon. Odds are, if you know someone who's losing lots of weight, and losing it fast, you probably know someone who's Combo-Pilling... Why? Because it allows people to attack multiple facets of weight loss — like dropping fat, overcoming stress eating, and having enough energy to work out — at the same time.

2 Super-Powerful “Diet Pills” Make Comeback!

Consumer Favorite

Most of us thought the era of the “Super-Powerful” diet pill ended a few years back when the FDA removed Ephedra and Fen-Phen from the U.S. market because of safety concerns. Well, it turns out that “most of us” were wrong. Two of the hottest “Super Pills” are BiphedAdrene® (available exclusively at GNC and Biphed.com; about $135 for a full 30-day supply) and TriAdalean™ (available at WalMart, CVS, Walgreens, Rite Aid and TriAdalean.com; about $70 for a full 30-day supply [120 capsules] — use promo code TRIM9 for free shipping†).

However we emphasize that these high-energy products are not for everyone because they are extremely potent and contain powerful xanthine (stimulant) compounds. Before using either of these formulations, consult your health-care provider if you have, or have a family history of, high blood pressure, cardiovascular disease, thyroid disease or seizure disorder. Nevertheless, if “ordinary” diet pills aren't doing the job, this new crop of “Super Pills” is most certainly your best bet!

3 HCG Solution... Weight-Loss Breakthrough?

You've seen them on TV, you've read about them in magazines and on the internet. They're HCG diet plans, and they've got to be the most controversial, purported weight-loss plans of all time. But do any of them really work? To tell you the truth, almost every expert will say either “absolutely not,” “the reduced calorie diet plan caused the weight loss” or “the weight loss was the result of the placebo effect.” Yet the fact remains that tens of thousands of men and women swear by it... just ask your friends. The most popular “HCG” product on the market is The HCG Solution™ available at WalMart, Target, RiteAid, or online at MyHCGSolution.com (about $39; use promo code HCG4 and get free shipping†).

DRESSED to THRILL

MARG HELGENBERGER

Marg's dress is so busy that it's thrown me into a dizzy tizzy! But here's the good thing – it's super flattering to the 54-year-old "CSI" favorite's figure.

PAULA PATTON

The sexy "2 Guns" star steals the spotlight from hubby Robin Thicke's hit song "Blurred Lines." She's stunning in an embroidered tulle Oliver Tolentino dress and Christian Louboutin pumps.

JANE SEYMOUR

Can you believe it's been 40 years since Jane played a Bond girl? The "Live and Let Die" star shows she's still got killer curves in a clingy cocktail dress by David Meister.

JENNIFER HUDSON

She's J-Hud – hear her roar! The Weight Watchers success story is queen of the Hollywood jungle in head to toe Versace with a leopard-print blouse and flared shorts.

Turn the page for FASHION EXTRA

SOPHIA BUSH

She's so "Splash"-y! The "One Tree Hill" cutie floats in a mermaid-y Monique Lhuillier gown with a Nancy Gonzalez clutch and Jimmy Choo sandals.

KATE HUDSON

Between all the embroidery and other doo-dads, I don't think the designers at Balmain could have loaded more junk on this patchwork mini. But Kate's ethereal beauty shines through.

SHARON STONE

Didn't Sharon wear this in "Basic Instinct"? Maybe not, but at 55, it's time for her to retire the ice queen bondage schtick, not to mention that teased '50s housewife hair!

ZOSIA MAMET

The only hope for the "Girls" star's gruesome getup is to be swept up in a "Sharknado"!

New FLU VACCINE OPTIONS

★ Fearful of needles? Allergic to eggs? This coming flu season will have a vaccine option for you.

You can select one without egg proteins or one delivered by a micro-needle into the skin, rather than by a regular needle under the skin.

There will be lots of “different kinds of vaccines that tend to be targeted toward individual age groups and fears, for example a needle fear,” said Mayo Clinic expert Dr. Gregory Poland. “It really is ushering in a new era of individualized, or personalized, medicine.”

Fish oil fights CHRONIC PAIN

★ Scientists are on the verge of developing a healthier, more natural alternative to chronic pain treatment.

In preliminary lab experiments, Duke University researchers injected a main ingredient of fish oil supplements into mice and achieved amazing results.

The therapy not only lessened pain, it also reduced nerve swelling from injury. The next step: clinical trials.

NUTTY WAY to stay healthy

★ Two handfuls of walnuts a day can help keep prostate cancer away!

Researchers injected mice with prostate cancer cells and then fed one group a diet without walnuts and the other a diet that included them.

“We found the results to be stunning because there were so few tumors in animals consuming the walnuts, and these tumors grew much more slowly than in the other animals,” said biology professor Russel Reiter of The University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio.

Research suggests about two ounces of walnuts a day can help prevent or delay certain cancers, including breast and prostate.

★ People with prediabetes are at risk for developing the full-blown condition – but they can slash their chances of this occurring, say Johns Hopkins experts.

Losing a substantial amount of weight within the first six months of diagnosis can substantially reduce the risk of developing Type 2 diabetes.

After analyzing data of more than 3,000 overweight people with high blood sugar, researchers found that those who lost about 10 percent of their body weight through diet and exercise had an 85 percent lower risk of developing diabetes within three years of their prediabetes diagnosis.

Those who lost 5 to 7 percent of their body weight reduced their risk by 54 percent within the same time frame.

The skinny on PREVENTING DIABETES

★ People who stop taking certain cholesterol-lowering drugs might be at an increased risk for developing Parkinson's disease.

A new study out of Taiwan involved nearly 44,000 people who were taking statin medications and did not have Parkinson's disease.

Researchers found that those who stopped taking fat-soluble statins such as Zocor and Lipitor were about 58 percent more likely to develop Parkinson's disease than those who kept taking the drugs.

Statins cut PARKINSON'S RISK

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot
this week

Under the Dome

Monday, Aug. 19, 10 p.m. ET, CBS

The world under the dome is getting uncomfortably small for the folks of Chester's Mill as this extraordinary series keeps growing in popularity. Tonight, Julia (Rachelle Lefevre) tries to share her discovery of the mini-dome with Barbie (Mike Vogel), only to find it missing. With resources diminishing to frightening levels and money of no value, Angie (Britt Robertson) and Big Jim (Dean Norris) implement bartering systems. And when a mysterious woman named Maxine (guest star Natalie Zea, "Justified") appears in town, Big Jim calls for a collection of the town's guns in return for extra food and propane as this best-ever TV adaptation of a Stephen King novel gets more intriguing by the minute.

MasterChef

Wednesday, Aug. 21, 9 p.m. ET, FOX

Tonight, the top six contestant chefs take over upscale L.A. restaurant WP24 and are told to re-create some of the eatery's appetizers and entrees – with limited prep and cooking time. With a discerning group of diners waiting while Chef Gordon Ramsay berates the contestants, the emotional heat in the kitchen is up all the way! Later, someone on the losing team will be sent home if they can't prepare a perfect plate of fried calamari with a side of marinara sauce quick enough in this high-pressure cooking competition.

Escape from Polygamy (Made-for-TV Movie Premiere)

Saturday, Aug. 24, 8 p.m. ET, Lifetime

"Big Love" meets "Romeo and Juliet" in this harrowing and heartbreaking tale of forbidden romance between two average teens raised in polygamous families. Newly widowed Leann (Mary McCormack) and her 17-year-old free-spirited daughter Julina (Haley Lu Richardson) move into a new compound where Leann marries her new husband as ordained by The Prophet, Ervil (William Mapother). But when Julina and Ervil's son Ryder (Jack Falahee) fall in love, Ervil says that God told him to marry Julina! And to go against The Prophet is to go against God. Now the young lovers must flee the community before Ervil gets his pedophilic hooks into Julina in a story so intense it will leave you emotionally exhausted.

Project Runway

Thursday, Aug. 22, 9 p.m. ET, Lifetime for him that is – as the "Runway" extends to the great outdoors tonight. Gunn is as well-groomed and dapper as ever in his own custom-made camouflage suit as he and the designers go on an overnight "glamping" trip. Why? To stimulate the designers to create a new high-end fashion sensation for their next challenge. Can camping, rafting and zip-lining actually inspire the next new fashion line? Maybe, but one designer, who simply cannot make popular clothes, including a problem. Heidi Klum, Nina Garcia, Zac Posen and mentor Tim Gunn are the judges. "Girls" star Allison Williams guest-judges.

"PR" goes into the wild

BOMBSHELL reality star Kendra Wilkinson is so eager to raise cash she's selling off the pricey San Diego-area condo that was featured in her "Girls Next Door" series, a source says.

The bubbly, busty beauty quickly became a fan favorite on the E! show, which centered on the lives of Hugh Hefner's three girlfriends – Kendra, Holly Madison and Bridget Marquardt – who lived with him at the Playboy mansion.

Kendra's
hubby Hank
Baskett

BUT THAT SHOW ENDED IN 2010 after a five-year run, and things have gotten progressively rougher for the perky 28-year-old blonde and her football player husband Hank Baskett. The former "Playboy" model's current reality show, "Kendra On Top," was dropped by the E! network and is now on WE.

The mom of 3-year-old son Hank also pulled out of ABC's diving show "Splash," citing her fear of heights. And her hubby is reportedly embroiled in legal problems over a gym where he was allegedly a partner.

So Kendra made the difficult decision to sell the condo that "Girls Next Door" viewers saw her buy and fix up with her grandfather as a real estate investment and rental property.

Kendra's mom Patti Wilkinson recently tweeted: "Kendra is selling her townhouse in La Jolla. If interested, let me know!"

The insider believes: "Right now, Kendra is worried about having enough cash on hand. Her young family has a lot of expenses to take care of and she desperately wants to remain in the black."

"Selling the condo will at least give her a little cushion to fall back on."

Vanna's fortunate

Vanna is funding her own "Wheel of Fortune" by investing in real estate – fixing up homes and reselling them (Vanna White Flipping Out, July 15). She's spending her TV earnings wisely. She's a savvy TV hostess and a smart businesswoman too. Kudos, Vanna!

– Elaine H., Hanson, Mass.

Age gracefully, stars

After all the examples in The National ENQUIRER of plastic surgery gone wrong, it mystifies me that these stars would subject themselves to this. Nine times out of 10, they render themselves freakish. I don't stand in judgment, but I'd rather watch them age.

– Russell Z., San Leon, Texas

Letter of the Week

Stop snubbing your mom, Jen

Regarding "Jen Snubs Hospitalized Mom" (July 15): Jennifer Aniston, you should be ashamed of yourself! You're lucky to have your mom around. So what if she's done some things you don't like? Go see her and tell her you love her. One day she'll be gone and you'll be sorry.

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

TALK about quitting cold turkey!

Handsome Kellan Lutz stuffed himself with six meals a day to pack on 25 pounds for the lead role in "Hercules 3D" – and now he's struggling to shed it all.

To look convincing as the superstrong mythical hero, Kellan spent hours a day pumping iron while loading up on carbs and protein. But now the 28-year-old actor, who found fame as heartthrob vampire Emmett in the "Twilight" series, has to do a complete about-face.

"Kellan needs to shed the extra weight fast to get ready for his next film," explained an insider. "And he knows he isn't going to do it while still eating chocolate, gummy bears and cheesecake."

It's become a man-versus-food battle for the 6-foot-1 star, who needs to slim down for his upcoming role in the big-screen drama, "Love Is All You Need?" To get back to being a lean, mean acting machine, he's running five miles a day and doing twice-daily cardio exercises instead of lifting weights.

BUT KELLAN, WHOSE weight reportedly soared to 225 pounds, admits he still lusts for big, juicy steaks, savory Angus burgers, double-stuffed baked potatoes and gooey desserts. In fact, the source says that when Kellan's trainer tells him to go for the "kale and fish," he begins fantasizing about steak and onion rings.

"Kellan complains that it's torture getting back to his healthy eating style," added the source. "It was a lot more fun putting on the weight than taking it off."

SOLUTION TO COLORCROSS #31, SEE PAGE 56

BRANDY LaChapelle thought she and her boyfriend Dex Christmas were just going for a check-out scuba dive to get their open-water certification – but she got a BIG surprise instead!

They were underwater exploring a cave opening at the bottom of Rainbow River near Dunnellon, Fla., and about to practice “buddy breathing,” which is where two malfunction and share a regulator to breathe through as they surface.

Instead, Dex pulled out a slate and wrote: “Will you marry me?” along with an option to check “Yes” or “No.”

Brandy says she would have screamed for delight, but couldn’t because she was wearing a dive mask and had a regulator in her mouth.

“HE CAUGHT ME COMPLETELY BY surprise,” Brandy, 20, told The ENQUIRER. “Of course, I checked, ‘Yes.’ Then he put the ring on my finger – but we had to wait until we surfaced to kiss!”

“It’s a good thing that we didn’t drop the ring.”

“He’s a romantic guy, all right, but he doesn’t usually let it show,” says Brandy, an agricultural student who works for beef supplier Artisan Cattle as well as the organic restaurant Artisanal Dish in Ocala.

“This time, he knocked me flat! I knew something was up. He seemed really nervous the day before, but I never saw a marriage proposal coming.

“It was the most romantic thing that’s ever happened to me.

“There was even a photographer along from the local newspaper. They told me he was taking pictures for a story on dive certification – but he was in on it too!”

Meanwhile, friends and relatives – including the happy couple’s mothers, Dax’s father and grandmother, Brandy LaChapelle and Dex Christmas, his nephew and their mothers, have been dating for four years – gathered topside to greet the waterlogged pair when they emerged from the river.

After a spirited round of applause and congratulations, the whole gang headed off to a seafood restaurant for a celebratory dinner.

“When Dex pulled out his slate and started scribbling, I first thought he might be in some kind of trouble,” recalled Brandy. “But

Will you marry me?
Yes ☒ No ☐

After Brandy checked the “Yes” box, Dex put the ring on her finger which is what he wrote. “I’m the nicest woman on earth.” I can’t admit, after four years of dating, a little bit of me was thinking, it’s about time!”
